

Opportunistic Trip Planner

Motivation and Informal Description

When you want to go on vacation, booking your trip last minute can be a great idea to save money. Wherever you want to go, chances are at some point there will be cheap flights and hotels. You just need to be patient and wait for a good offer and need to have time when it appears. But maybe this was exactly the week/weekend you forgot to check if there's an offer. Maybe the first friend you asked to join didn't have time when you called enthusiastically so you gave up. So you need to check again the next day. This problem only gets harder as friends may live in a different city and have tight schedules of their own.

Should it really be this hard? What happened to the spontaneity of the whole thing? We want you to fix this. We want a service that addresses these problems and informs you whenever an opportunity for a spontaneous trip with our friends is coming up. You and your friends select a few interesting destinations and whenever the right offer comes along, you will be informed. If you and enough friends agree, then it's time to go on holidays!

Requirements

Good programming skills. The student(s) should be able to work independently on this topic!

Interested? Please contact us for more details!

Contact

- Pascal Bissig: pascal.bissig@tik.ee.ethz.ch, ETZ G61.3
- Philipp Brandes: philipp.brandes@tik.ee.ethz.ch, ETZ G94